

EXTREME PRESENTATION METHOD

The High Performance People Group has the licence to conduct the Extreme Presentation Method in the Asia Pacific region.

The Extreme Presentation method is a step-by-step approach for designing presentations of complex or controversial information in ways that drive people to action. It is based on extensive empirical research and has been pilot tested among leading corporations, including Microsoft, Exxon-Mobil, Kimberly-Clark, eBay, and Motorola.

The Extreme Presentation Method underpins a lot of the work we do in assisting clients to win business, deliver compelling speeches and communicate complex information.

Detailed information can be found about the method on Dr Abel's sites:

<http://www.extremepresentation.com/> and <http://extremepresentation.typepad.com/blog/>